California's Fabulous Fossil Finds

Bring the kids!

This month's IGS lecture will be an overview of vertebrate fossils from California.

- Dinosaurs and flying and swimming reptiles from Jurassic and Cretaceous deposits.
- Rare early Tertiary mammals from coastal deposits.
- The surprisingly complete biostratigraphic record of Miocene, Pliocene and Pleistocene fossil mammals and other vertebrates.
- Fossiliferous strata from lush past eras exposed in the California deserts.

Learn what fossils can tell us, and why vertebrate fossils belong in museums.

Biography:

Bob Reynolds studied geology at Pasadena City College and the University of California, Riverside, where his major was Geology with an emphasis on Life Sciences (Paleontology). He was Curator of Earth Sciences at the San Bernardino County Museum for 32 years, and Associate/Paleontologist at LSA for another 10 years. He has written 186 publications on paleontology. His research interests continue to be focused on Miocene and Pliocene biostratigraphy of the Mojave and Colorado Deserts.
